INTRODUCTION

- [1] This is an application for the first renewal of an on-licence for the premises situated at 4 King Edward Street, Dunedin, and known as "The Kensington".
- [2] Public notice of the application did not attract any public objection however the Licensing Inspector has opposed the renewal of the licence stating they do not believe the Applicant is a suitable person to have an alcohol licence. Neither the Police nor Medical Officer of Health opposed the application, but they support the position of the Inspector.

Applicant

- [3] The Applicant, Akuhata Limited, presented a submission that was taken as read.
- [4] The Licensing Inspector's report raised several issues that were addressed by the Applicant. The business is overseen by the two brothers, Conrad who looks after the administration component, and Cameron. Conrad's partner, Emma Rookes, has a manager's certificate and is one of the duty managers. Harold Salisbury oversees the whole business. Conrad Salisbury is currently recovering from serious surgery after which there were some serious medical issues.

- [5] All of the duty managers employed at the premises have completed the ServeWise training at the advice of the Licensing Inspector.
- [6] The Applicant has reduced their trading hours by agreeing to the later opening time of 10.00 am. They admit that some of the comments made at the first relicensing meeting were 'flippant' and did not reflect their business practice. They usually do not open early. When they do it is to televise sport from overseas and when that happens, the time they would open is about 9.00 am.
- [7] The Inspector commented that there was a lack of signage in the premises. All of the appropriate signs are now in place, including a water sign at the bar, and new signage has been ordered from the taxi companies. The duty manager's name is also now displayed at the upstairs bar.
- [8] The reason the company structure was changed was because both Conrad and Cameron were seeking personal finance and to make it easier, they were removed from the company. The same people are still involved in the same roles. The family has since been caught up with the health of Conrad and some things have slipped away.
- [9] The first of the two fights mentioned in the Inspector's report was reported to the Police but not in the premises' incident book. A new policy has been written clearly stating what and when incidents shall be recorded. The second incident was an assault on Cameron Salisbury. They are still trying to sort out that incident and again, a new policy to cover such incidents has been implemented.
- [10] The reference to 'shots' on the premises' menu has been removed. The loyalty card allows a 6% discount on purchases. It cannot be used to accumulate funds for future use.
- [11] The Applicant said they took host responsibility seriously. Since the Inspector's report had been received, they have had a complete look at their processes and are in the process of refreshing their processes and documents.
- [12] The Committee asked if the changes in the company structure had been notified to the Alcohol Regulatory and Licensing Authority. Ms Carr said they thought it would be done by the Committee as part of this hearing. When reminded of s.69 of the Act, she said she would get on to it immediately.
- [13] The Applicant was asked why the current sole director and shareholder, Ms Emma Rooke, was not present. They said she can be contacted and asked to come and present to the Committee.
- [14] The Licensing Inspector asked for confirmation that the premises usually opened at about 11.00 am but they wanted the licence hours to start at 10.00 am. Mr Salisbury confirmed that was the case.
- [15] The Committee acknowledged the Applicant had admitted making mistakes and they had apologised for this. There would need to be a lot of 'good faith' going forward and assurances the issues identified would be corrected.
- [16] The Committee requested the presence of Ms Rooke.
- [17] Clarification of the 'K-Card' was sought. The Applicant said it was able to be used for a small discount at the time of purchase. The ability to accumulate discount was removed from the card. When it was pointed out that feature was still advertised on their Instagram account, they said it would be removed immediately.
- [18] The Applicant reaffirmed their commitment to having staff complete the ServeWise course. They were also committed to ongoing training which would be done at least once per year and whenever there is a law change. New checklists are being developed but it is taking a bit of time because of health issues.

Mr Conrad Salisbury

[19] Mr Salisbury read his evidence.

Mr H Salisbury

- [20] Mr Salisbury read his evidence. He said they do not 'ply their customers with alcohol'. He is from Australia and liked to keep things 'light'. He said he did not mean to be offensive in his comments.
- [21] He admitted they do host parties at the premises, but they are well supervised. They also allow their premises to be used for fundraisers and gave an example of a recent one for a sick person. He said they do what they can to contribute to the community. They also sponsor various local sports teams and schools.
- [22] Mr Salisbury said he has been in the hospitality industry for about 50 years, both here in New Zealand and in Australia. He said he just wants to continue doing a good job. He said in the current society, people come into the premises high on drugs. When they are identified they are removed. Sometimes people become difficult, and the Police are called. Generally, the Police can't get to the premises so, rather than have a problem person remain, they will try and get them outside themselves.
- [23] The Committee commented that, with the renewed commitment, it would be helpful to have a policies and procedure manual so it could be produced when requested. An Incident Reporting Manual is also important. The Applicant said they would get on to it.
- [24] It was also mentioned that there needed to be evidence of training so that when the agencies request it, a record can be produced. Mr Salisbury said they had a buddy system operating at the premises. They all received host responsibility and Licence Controller Qualification (LCQ) training. Two staff were about to apply for their managers' certificates which would take the number of certified managers to seven. Their goal is to get all staff certified. All of the staff have completed the ServeWise training.
- [25] When asked about the absence of conflict training, Conrad said his health problems got in the way and he was out of action for a full two months. He said he was in recovery now and will be able to become immersed in the work. He said he had experience with conflict so would be able to do some training.
- [26] The Committee asked why there was no register of the duty managers for the premises. Mr Salisbury said he had the information in his office but there was no actual register. He said there was no excuse for not having a register.
- [27] When asked about the incident reporting at the premises, they said a record was made of every day, even when nothing of note happened. They have installed three new security cameras to cover the areas not visible from the bar. They are stepping up security in the premises for both staff and customer safety.
- [28] When they have a big night and on Saturday nights, SPS Security is used. They don't work every night so there are occasions when they need to deal with situations themselves. However, in the future they will call the Police and wait for them.
- [29] An adjournment was taken so Ms Rooke could be briefed by the Applicant.
- [30] The Licensing Inspector asked for clarification regarding the removal of Conrad and Cameron from the applicant company. Mr Salisbury told the Committee it was at the advice of a mortgage broker when they were seeking finance for their first homes. When the company was established, it was done online by Mr Salisbury's wife Errin. When they had the premises Cameron and Conrad were added to the company. Ms Rooke was added when the mortgage broker recommended Cameron and Conrad be removed. She is now the sole director and shareholder.

- [31] When asked who ran the business day to day, Conrad said it was a family run business. The general management was done by Conrad and Cameron with Ms Rooke having the final say when there was a dispute. At the time of the hearing this had not been required. Staff training is done by Conrad, but Ms Rooke is the main person. Mr Salisbury further explained that Errin was not involved with the business on a daily basis but was the referee when required. The premises is run like a family cooperative where everything is discussed and resolved.
- [32] The Applicant was asked why the required signage was not put in place after it was pointed out by the agencies at the first meeting. Mr Salisbury said the health representative had promised to drop some in but that did not happen.
- [33] In response to another question, Mr Salisbury said when the 'point of sale' system was installed they discussed having a card. It was settled that the card would give a 6% discount off the full price. The discounts cannot be accumulated and when there is a 'happy hour', the patron either has the 6% discount or the happy hour price, not both.
- [34] The Medical Officer of Health asked about training at the premises when it opened. Conrad started carrying out the training but then became ill. There was no structured training during this time but when a new person was employed, Mr Salisbury taught the host responsibility policies, health and safety and the processes used at the premises. Now Conrad is getting better he will carry out the training, mainly conflict situations, host responsibility and health and safety.
- [35] If Conrad became ill again, the Applicant said everything will be in writing so one of the others would be able to pick up the training.
- [36] The Police asked what experience the family had in hospitality. Mr Salisbury said when he was at university 48 years earlier, he had a parttime job in hospitality. He loved it and has been involved in the industry ever since. Conrad said he started in a hotel in Rotorua in 2008. Ms Rooke said her experience had all been in New Zealand with the Salisbury family.
- [37] When asked by the Policy why the change in company structure was not notified to the Authority, Mr Salisbury said they had been preoccupied with their son's medical issues and did not have their minds totally on the business. In the past they had always relied on lawyers to undertake such actions.
- [38] The Police asked the Applicant how they manage a person who becomes intoxicated. They said intoxicated people cannot enter or remain on the premises. When an intoxicated person is identified, transport is arranged for them, and they are taken to a safe place until that transport arrives. They have several places they can use to take people including the foyer, the restaurant area and the upstairs function room when it isn't in use. They are given water and a staff member remains with them until they can leave. The Applicant said they need to 'look after' people about four times per month.
- [39] The Committee asked who would carry on the training if Conrad became ill again. Conrad said he has been getting all the policies and procedures in place so the resource would be available. Errin Salisbury has experience running big premises so would be in a position to help if required.

Ms Morrison

- [40] Ms Morrison is the Licensing Inspector who reported on this application. She said she had nothing further to add to her initial report.
- [41] The Committee asked if the Applicant's presentation and subsequent responses to questions had been helpful. Ms Morrison said a lot had been offered by the Applicant and they had taken steps to make improvement however she still has some concern about the company structure and is not confident Ms Rooke is actually involved in the running of the business.

- [42] Ms Morrison was asked how she thought the premises was run when the Southern Sounds concert was operating in the fields near their premises. She said they did well, and it is consistent with what they reported regarding the night.
- [43] When asked what advice could be offered, Ms Morrison said they needed to write a robust procedure manual and it needed to be followed up with action. Ms Morrison's recommendation is for a truncated renewal to allow time for Conrad's health to improve and for Ms Rooke to settle into the role of running the business.

Ms Rooke

- [44] Ms Rooke is currently the sole director and shareholder of the Applicant company. She said she was committed to the long-term success of the business.
- [45] In response to a question from the Committee she said she hasn't had to make a decision against the Salisbury family to date but was confident she could speak up if required. She said she was aware of her responsibilities and obligations under the Act and would ensure appropriate staff, training and processes were in place.

Ms Carr

- [46] Ms Carr said the Applicant was confident they had everything in place moving forward. They would ensure each staff member received training at least every year and records would be kept. An induction process for new staff would be put in place.
- [47] She said it is a family business and Ms Rooke is aware that, in her position, the buck stops with her.
- [48] Ms Carr said they would accept a truncated renewal if that was required and would accept any additional conditions that the Committee considered necessary.
- [49] The Committee reminded the Applicant that having an alcohol licence was a privilege, not a right, and it was up to them to ensure they had everything in place as required by the legislation. They also suggested the Applicant initiate contact with the agencies to get assistance and guidance when required.
- [50] The Committee advised the parties they would reserve their position until the end of February 2023 to allow time for the Applicant to put together a training manual and employee handbook.

DECISION

- [51] This matter was brought to a hearing because of management failure to advise the Authority of a change in company structure, poor operating practices in the premises, including not recording incidents that take place at the premises, and the absence of required signage. The Licensing Inspector doubted the applicant's understanding of their obligations as a licensee and did not believe they had appropriate staff, systems and processes to comply with the legislation.
- [52] The Applicant offered no excuse for not notifying the Authority of the change in company structure. However, they did explain that one of the company directors suffered serious health issues through the year and is still recovering from the experience.
- [53] The reason for the recent change in company structure was a result of advice from a mortgage broker who told them that Conrad and Cameron Salisbury had a better chance of obtaining personal finance if they were not involved in the company structure. At that time the partner of one of them, Ms Rooke, was appointed sole director and shareholder of the applicant company.
- [54] When questioned about the management of the business, the Applicant said that although Ms Rooke was now solely responsible for the business, it was run by the family with each having a part to play. Ms Rooke had the final say in any decision to be made.

- [55] The Applicant had taken on board the comments of the reporting agencies and have started making changes to their operating processes and procedures. They are being properly documented and agreed they would seek the assistance of the agencies whenever they needed advice.
- [56] The Licensing Inspector had reservations about the running of the business and in particular, who was responsible for its operation. She did not believe Ms Rooke was in a position to manage the premises but with time, this perception may change. The Inspector did acknowledge the Applicant had offered a lot during the hearing and that they had taken steps to improve the business.
- [57] the Applicant was confident the business was moving in the right direction and that they were committed to its success.
- [58] The Committee is satisfied that the Applicant is committed to the business, and they will do what is required. The Committee asked the Applicant to supply them with a draft of their Policies and Procedure Manual by the end of February 2023.
- [59] The Applicant sent a Training Manual and Employee Handbook to the Committee for consideration. Both are comprehensive and demonstrate the Applicant's commitment to their business. Like the Inspector, the Committee is wary of the involvement of Ms Rooke in the running of the business because she is the person ultimately responsible.
- [60] After considering the evidence presented at the hearing and the manuals supplied by the Applicant subsequent to the hearing, we are satisfied as to the matters to which we must have regard as set out in s.131 of the Act and therefore renew the licence with the amended opening time of 10.00 am.
- [61] To allow time for the Applicant to demonstrate their commitment to the business, the Committee will renew the licence for a truncated period. The licence is therefore renewed until 21 January 2024, that being 18 months from the first anniversary of the licence and authorise the issue of a replacement licence and notice of renewal.
